UNDERGRADUATE CONCENTRATION IN REGIONAL STUDIES - LATIN AMERICA

The Concentration in Regional Studies in Latin America is designed to give undergraduates the general mastery of a discipline and at the same time permit them to do specialized work in the language, history, and culture of the Latin American region. Students take core courses that give them grounding in the language, history, politics, and cultures of Latin America as well as courses in a discipline of choice. The disciplines of choice include anthropology, art history and archaeology, economics, history, music, political science, sociology, Spanish and Portuguese, and urban studies. A minimum of 18 credits is needed to fulfill the requirements for the Major in Regional Studies in Latin America.

Concentration in Latin American and Caribbean Studies

Students pursuing a concentration will have to fulfill the following requirements. The minimum number of credits is 18.

1. One of two basic Latin American Humanities courses, SPAN W3490 or SPAN W3491 (Latin American Humanities I and II).
2. One of the following three History courses: HIST W3660x and HIST W3661y (Latin American Civilization I and II), or History W3618 (The Modern Caribbean).
3. One Political Science course, POLS G4461x (Latin American Politics).
4. A specialization: Two courses in a discipline or theme of choice with substantive focus on Latin America. Students whose disciplines of choice are History or Spanish and Portuguese will have to replace one of these courses with one course with a focus on Latin America in another department. The major's Director of Undergraduate Studies will advise students on areas of specialization and will approve courses with substantial Latin American or Caribbean contents not included in the list of eligible courses (see Appendix 3 for current available courses).
5. One course on Spanish, Portuguese or an indigenous language at the intermediate or advanced level. If students can demonstrate advance knowledge of one of these languages they can replace this course with a course on other languages at any level.

Note:

Up to 6 credits for requirements 4 and 5 can be earned through study abroad. Students are strongly encouraged to explore study abroad options before their junior year. Upon return, they should submit syllabae and all coursework related to each course taken abroad for approval by the DUS.
