1) LATC-GA 2965 Elementary Haitian Kreyol II
   Instructor: Wynnie Lamour
   Date/Time: Monday, Wednesday, Friday – 12:30pm – 1:45pm
   Location: KJCC 404W

   Description: Haitian Creole is spoken by Haiti’s population of nine million and by about one million Haitians in the U.S. including nearly 200,000 in the New York City area. In fact, New York City has the second largest population of Kreyòl Speakers after Port-au-Prince, Haiti’s capital. This course is intended for students who already have a basic comprehension of the grammar structure, sounds, and vocabulary of Haitian Creole. Students will be guided to a more advanced introductory level of the Haitian Creole language to further develop speaking, reading, writing, and listening skills. A communicative approach will be used, balanced with grammatical and phonetic techniques. Classroom and textbook materials are complemented by work with film, radio, and music (konpa, rasin, twoubadou, rap, raga, levanjil, vodou tradisyonèl, etc.), as well as with visits to city museums and other institutions related to Haiti. At the end of the course, students will be better able to conduct a conversation in Haitian Creole and have a better command of Haitian vocabulary and grammar within a relevant cultural context. Course in Beginning Haitian Kreyòl, for graduate students with interests in research and/or professional work related to Haiti or Haitian communities.

3) LATC-GA 21 - Intermediate Quechua II
   Instructor: Odi Gonzalez
   Date/time: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, 2:00pm – 3:15pm
   Location: 25 West 4th Street, C13

4) LATC-GA 1017 - Government & Politics of Latin America
   Instructor: Patricio Navia
   Date/Time: Tuesday, 5:00pm-7:00pm
   Location: KJCC, Room 404W
Description: As a social science, political science differs from other disciplines in that its basic object of study is the State and the way individuals and groups of individuals relate, interact and respond to the State. Political parties, institutions and collective behavior of individuals are central components in the field. Thus, political science will often focus more on political parties, the military, government bureaucracies and revolutionary forces than on labor unions, peasants or disposed groups. In short, political science tends to show a bias towards elite studies. Perhaps as a signal that traditionally disposed groups are acquiring greater political power, non-elite studies have grown and enriched the field in recent years. Yet, the primary research focus continues to be the State and how different groups influence (or seek to influence) the State.

5) LATC-GA 1045 – Human Rights in Latin America
   Instructor: Peter Lucas
   Date/Time: Thursday, 6:00pm -9:00pm
   Location: KJCC, Room 404W

   Description: In this graduate seminar, students will examine human rights case studies in Latin America, popular resistance and social movements in Latin America, the role of media and representation in reporting and promoting human rights, and educational initiatives for human rights. We will especially study the many choices society has after collective violence. Latin America remains a fascinating region to study human rights as the last two decades have stood out as a period of reckoning and bearing witness of past atrocities. In the wake of serious violence, countries continue to struggle with issues of justice, reconciliation, truth, remembering, and healing. Over the years there have been many different responses to collective violence in Latin America and these strategies continue to evolve and change. This course will study the range of these responses not only to reconcile human rights violations of the past but also to build a culture of human rights and peace in the future.

6) LATC-GA 2304 – Democracy, Culture, and Power in Latin American Education
   Instructor: Pamela Calla
   Date/Time: Thursday, 2:00pm -4:30pm
   Location: KJCC, Room 404W

   Description: Students will be given the opportunity to compare and contrast Freire’s notion of dialogical education with intercultural and multilingual notions in relation to the construction of democracy and equality. This will provide a basis from which to unravel how state officialization of Intercultural/Multicultural and Bilingual/Multilingual Education involved its depolitization through the fading of its historical critical potential. In this light, we will examine how proponents of such officialization chose to ignore critical pedagogy, critical race theory and most of all the contributions and critiques made by feminists and critical gender theorists of education. The seminar will thus end with the exploration of such feminist critiques and those of indigenous women and men interested in “troubling” the educational arena and taking the legacies and trajectories of Freirean approaches to education and of Intercultural/Multicultural and Bilingual/Multicultural Education proposals a step further.
